Here's One Dolphin Who Doesn't Mind A Net

The clever dolphin clearly has mastered the art of basketball and scores point after point flipping the ball up through the hoop with his nose. Amateur photographer Sergio Longhi, 44, captured the athletic animal's incredible sporting feat at a sanctuary in Cuba. dailymail.co.uk : tinyurl.com/y5o8uxlh

Profit? How about Professionally Fit!

America, for its part, currently trains around 75 dolphins as well as sea lions under the US Navy Marine Mammal Program, based in San Diego, California. The US Navy spent $14 million in 2007 on marine mammal research and training programmes. This century is set to reunite peoples universally as language barriers break down with friendships forged in pastimes both on the job and off. forces.net : tinyurl.com/y6y75doh

Dolphin And Whale Sanctuaries and Estuaries

Ownership on individuals leads to the slaughter when an owner profits solely on meat, while ownership to the franchise grants rights to publicity and protects liberty. Free sanctuaries where choice belongs with the athlete creates an environment where special people thrive.

Is a Dolphin a Person? Bottlenose dolphins have bigger brains than humans (1600 grams versus 1300 grams), and they have a brain-to-body-weight ratio greater than great apes do (but lower than humans). "They are the second most encephalized beings on the planet," says Marino. www.sciencemag.org/news/2010/02/dolphin-person

GLOBE TROTTERS GOT NOTHING ON DOLPHINS!

Most people think dolphins want nothing to do with the human species, and that trainers are cruel slave masters. Entire theme parks have been shut down almost overnight because someone showed up expecting pets to give them a job. With the free market comes higher skilled people, and in Jerry Mac Guire the movie, we all learn that the talent is the Boss. Most people think a dolphin spitting out it's meal is hilarious, but it's a sure sign that the trainer is nothing more than stupified by policy. Open sanctuaries require the trainer to be trained by the dolphin, as they are no longer bound to return to someone who treats them poorly.

HOW INTELLIGENT ARE WHALES AND DOLPHINS?

It has been said that play is a great expression of intelligence, and whales and dolphins are gold medallists in this field! Pods of dolphins leap, tumble, back flip and spin together; and their behaviour is pure social enjoyment. us.whales.org : tinyurl.com/yyhk9jpe

'Russian Spy' Whale Defected to Norway

"He's so comfortable with people that when you call him he comes right up to you," Linn Sæther, a resident of Tufjord on the Arctic island of Rolvsøya, told Norwegian public broadcaster NRK, which has launched a poll to find a name for the mammal. Sæther said locals had been able to pet the whale, which was found at sea by Norwegian fishermen on Sunday wearing a harness fitted with a mount – apparently for a camera or weapon – and stamped with the words: "Equipment St Petersburg."

Cleaning up the Great Pacific Ocean

The ocean is big, conventional means are unrealistic. These passive systems are cheaper, and faster. This is how it works: In May 2018, a 120-meter section of the system successfully passed a tow test in the Pacific Ocean, being subjected to 5 meters waves. a full-scale cleanup system roll-out (a fleet approximately 60 systems large) could clean half the Great Pacific in five years. theoceancleanup.com/technology/

GIANT'S TOMB ISLAND

SOLD TO AMERICAN FIRM

Large Gravel and Sand Deposits Will be Transferred to Detroit for Building Purposes.

The Island on Georgian Bay known as 'Giants Tomb' was sold a few days ago to a contracting firm from Detroit, Mich., and the object of the purchase was to secure large deposits of fine gravel and sand that will be transferred to the American city by barge to be used for building purposes. The island was purchased years ago by Mr. Manley Chew and was stripped of its timber, and since that time has remained in his possession until a few months ago when an option was secured upon the property. At the time it was not known to what use it would be put but before the option expired it was taken up, the price being $9,000 and the island passed into possession of the American firm, who now have men engaged there in constructing docks and arranging suitable loading facilities for the transfer of materials therefrom early next summer.

Cities are named so for a reason, and when a land scout returns to describe the land, he may claim to have seen traces to ancient warfare. I saw war, like a trackerman, and it's name becomes Warsaw. There are at least 8 cities named warsaw on the east coast, America, and Warsaw Caves in Peterborough is right next to petroglyphs. It is difficult to say what happened here but it could be an ancient siege on a cave once inhabited by man. You decide. 8 cities named Warsaw.
